NOT ALL CARROTS ARE ORANGE

This is the VOA Special English Agriculture Report. We talked last week about growing beets. Today we have advice about growing another root vegetable, carrots. Carrots are easy to raise and easy to harvest. They taste good. And they contain a lot of carotene, which the body makes into vitamin A.

When people think of carrots, they usually picture in their mind a vegetable that is long, thin and orange. But carrots come in many different sizes and shapes. And not all carrots are orange. For example, Paris Market carrots are about five centimetres around. Imperator carrots are thin and about twenty-five centimetres long. And Belgian White carrots are, as their name suggests, white.

For the best results, carrots should be grown in sandy soil that does not hold water for a long time. The soil also should have no rocks. Weather, soil conditions and age will affect the way carrots taste. Experts say warm days, cool nights and a medium soil temperature are the best conditions for growing carrots that taste great.
46. The following is correct about carrots EXCEPT ______.
   a. They taste good
   b. They have different sizes
   c. They are orange or white
   d. They grow in water
   e. They contain vitamin A

47. How is the soil condition best for growing carrots?
   a. oily
   b. sandy
   c. rocky
   d. cool
   e. warm

48. Which type of carrots is the longest?
   a. Orange carrots
   b. Paris Market carrots
   c. Belgian White carrots
   d. Imperator carrots
   e. White carrots

49. In the second paragraph, the word their refers to ______.
   a. The reporters
   b. The people
   c. Paris Market carrots
   d. Belgian White carrots
   e. Imperator carrots

50. Carrots are easy to raise and easy to harvest. The underlined word has similar meaning to ______.
   a. grow
   b. result
   c. produce
   d. get
   e. crop
